At the Harrisburg general passenger depot the sales of emigration tickets westward for anuary of this year exceeded by five times the same sales for anuary of last yesr. Harris burg is a central point where country emigra tion converges and gathers, and its business is therefore a good index of the general move ment in this direction. These large sales are a marked and early verification of the prediction which we have made all along, that this year would witness a very general and extraordinary migration westward. Let us be hankful for it for it is uself an indication of retu ning good It is evidence that the large mass of people hitherto unemployed are getting earnest ly to work Further, it is for the East a relief of its surplus population, and for the West a splendid and enormous investment of capital, that capi al which it most needs-laker - Phil adelphia Press

THE LESSON OF THE CHINESE

FAMINE In the northern province of China seventy millions of people are starving. Famine is no infrequent visitor in those parts, but never be fore has abject want been so widespread or

For centuries the sterilizing influences, which have converted the once densely sopulated regions of Central Asia into a vast desert, have been reaching eastward. During the past two hundred years the desert has been encroaching upon Northern China, the regions now afflict dundergoing in that time a climitic change al most without parallel in the history of civilized countries

The fertilizing water cour es have disappear ed, massive bridges now span river be is whose floods have wasted, and everywhere the tras eler finds evidence of a former population rival ing in density that of the still fertile regions of outh China Repeated local fimines and civ il disturbances resulting therefrom have greatly thinned the population, yet in the affi cied re gion there still remain probably twice as many people as there are in all the United States And these are not only starving, but are almost hopelessly beyond the reach of relief from without I ormerly the deficiencies of North ern China were upplied from the south by way of the great canal ex ending 650 miles from Soochow to Tientsin, on the Pein's near Pikin For a thousand years this was the greatest arte ry of commerce in the world, but it lost its feeders, and became for the most part unnaviguile, when the Yang tse Kinng shifted its channel and found a new outlet three hundred miles to the north of its old one Thus cut off from its only's urce of relief in case of f iling crops, with scanty means of internal communication and subject to a govern ment that has not the energy to come at so dire an evil, even if it had the power, the s ricken region must bear its affection as b st it may Millions must die while the rest of the world locks on appalled by the magnitude of the disaster, yet impotent to relieve its victims To the world it is but another illustration of the pitiless sequence of rateral cause and of fect against which the prayers of 70 000,000 human beings have no more influence han the like bus ju ha tall to has been even to so human beings have no more influence han the The Susja ha ta I to has been revented cories of as many insects. Will it to any hing steel to I for Marthar thead is more to China? The experience of civilization 1,200 feet tell without the circle of remountain has been that the surest means of averting famines are found in good and abundant roads. No failure of crops, however complete, could cre the most live v and rig cause if could be ate a famine along a line of the way, not in a expression I spression is country well supplied with such means of quick In tearing ut the first and O 1 40 new only line of railway in China the government week has but fately shown its hostility to this institution in haraly

REV N SCENCES OF BEN WADE

The Southern men having tried in vain to head off Mr Wade, appealed to the r northern allies to help them. One day Mr. Douglas rose in his seat and interrupted Mr Wade, who was speaking. Instantly the chamber became silent as death, and all eyes were turned in the direction of the standing senators. Every me expected to see Wade demolished in a moment by the great Illinois Senator

' You, sir," said Mr Douglas in measured tones, "continually comp iment Southern men, who support this bill (Nebraska) but butterly denounce northern men who support it. Why is this? You say it is a moral wrong, you say it is a crime. If that he so, is it not as much a crime for a Southern man to support, as for a Northern man to do so?"

Mr Wade- 'No, sir I say not ' Mr Douglas-"The Senator says not Then be entertains a different code of morals from myself, and—

Mr Wade-interrupting Douglas, and point ing to him, with scorn marked in every linea ment of his face, "Your code of morals! Your morals 1 My God, I hope so, sir " The giant was hit in the forehead, and, after standing for a moment, with his face red as

Wade proceeded with his speech, as quietly as though nothing had occurred Wide one day replied to Toombs of Georgia, and to all appearance used language which would compel Toombs to challenge him Sev eral friends went to Wade and begged him to de sist, but the old man grew more and more vio lent, until Toombs indicated his intention of calling Wade to account for the language he was using when Wade quietly sat down, seem ingly having accomplished his object. The Southern men looked at each other in surprise, and it was manifest to all that Wade had de liberately sought a quaral with Toombs That night a friend of the Southern Senator called on Mr Wade to know if he would retract the offensive words he had used "No, I won't take back a word " was Wade's emphatic reply

When Toombs heard of what Wade said, he "I can't challenge him, if I do, he will kill me" It appears that Toom is and Wade has been out together shooting with a rife several times, and, while Toombi course shoot we with a pistol, he was a poor rife-shot. Wade was an old hunter, and, at a distance of a hundred yards, could hit a do.lar almost eve-

Mr Wade afterwards said to the writer 1 4 1 old Toombs, hat chal enget me that time, as I expected he would, - would have made sim put a rates on his cont, the size of a dollar, over his heart, and the old fer ow would have got demunicated ween he saw me crawing a years on him, and mission me, while, terms me ! wouldn't have cut tee miss !" TOTY BRIGHT

Among all the great men in the English House of Commons, ohn Bright is a conspicu oue figure, both in intellect and appearance His square, stoutish form, florid complexion and white hair, render him a noticeable object. As one studies him he grows in attractiveness. His massive leonine nead is crowned with a wealth of wavy silvery nair, which is thrown back from an expanded forehead, giving a no ble effect to his intellectual developments. His face is square without there being especial prominence in any feature while the whole is radiant with a kindly and benignant light. His mouth is rather large and ull of eloduent sensa tiveness. As he is seen with his genial smile, his gent'e expression, his ven-rable head, he seems the imperson fication of a sympathetic

THE "CAPTLOUS CRITIC!"

The Denver News reviews at length the art icle on udge Belford in our last week's issue. under the above heading. When the News says that "resumption when we promised and a to make the venture. currency convertible with coin is only another form of saying exactly what the News and oth about to start, and for whose support between Crow's Roost and Chico Baers have been trying to say for some time past," we are bound to believe the statement as far as the News is concerned, only we think if the Aeres had not tried quite as hard, it might have -ud that it favored resumption on anuary 1. 1879, with greater distinctness. As for judge Belford's opinions, we are bound to accept the carefully prepared utterances of the letter rath er than the very favorable explanations and comments found in the Aleus of March to and 26 We have read the letter several times and yet ful to bid that our criticisms were unjust that man who always voted against that which

The Senate recently, at the suggestion of Sen ator Blaine, passed a resolution calling upon S retary Schurz to make a report on the lum ber seizures in Montana. Mr. Schurz made his report, which led to some severe strictures on the Secretary's policy by Senators Blame, Sar gent, and Teller The newspapers have also taken up this subject, and we think in many in stances have done great injustice to Secretary Schurz He has tried to exclude settlers and miners from all prosecutions. He really has only prosecuted those speculators who had depredated upon public lands on a large scale for the sake of personal profit. Some idea of the vigor with which Secretary Schurz is executing the law is shown by the fact that he has obtained alread . $100,000 in cash from his prosecutions—a larger sum than has last twenty years. He has also seized about #1,000,000 worth of timber and commenced

We have little idea of the extent of these depredations General Williamson, of the Land Office, says that $40,000 000 worth of timber has been cut from the public lands and shipped to 'apan, China, South America, West Indies, and Europe during the last twenty years. At Pascagoula, Miss, are several steam sawmills using lumber stolen from the public lands. The mills are owned by Mr Emile De Smet, a Belgian citizen, who sends yearly a large num ber of vessels laden with wood to Belgium and France. There are a large number of foreign ers who are engaged in this business. The timber lands owned by the government in the Sout a western and Northwestern States are be coming bare of timber. We trust Secretary Schurz will pursue these thieves, for they are nothing better, and he ought to receive the thanks of his countrymen for so doing.
